

To whom it may concern,

I am writing the letter in regards to Ben Feistmann. Mr. Feistmann started out doing data entry for NextGen Climate. During the first afternoon he saw that much of the data was unusable because we couldn't read student's handwriting. What amazed me most about this interaction was that Mr. Feistmann didn't just find the problem, he eventually came up with the solution. Mr. Feistmann built a mobile friendly web app, which allowed our organizers and volunteers collect accurate voter information.

Campaigns are very fast paced. Mr. Feistmann recognized the pressing time concerns. Every day we didn't have the web app up and running we were losing data. Mr. Feistmann was able to have a prototype up and running a week after proposing building one, making design decisions based on real life needs. The web app was expanded from one campus to be used across the state within two weeks.

Working with Mr. Feistmann was an excellent experience. He was able to see past a problem to a solution, which is invaluable in any field. Mr. Feistmann was always available when he was needed, often getting messages at odd hours with a new need. If you have any further questions regarding Mr. Feistmann, please don't hesitate to reach out.
